Attn: Bucky Gros

Dear Bucky,

We often only find time to communicate when we either need something, or have complaints, and seldom take time to offer our appreciation for a job well done and for continued support.

Our Gordon Butte Wind project was a very important project for myself, and our company. Your help in not only providing crane, rigging and logistics support, but in getting us in contact with your friend Paul Sprayberry at LPR Construction played major roles in the success of the project. Additionally, when we were searching for project resources, you offered your help, not once, but twice.

It is people like yourself, and the entire crew at Lampson International that truly make this a great industry. In the last three years you have been instrumental in creating a working relationship with our company that I am sure will continue long into the future.

Thank you for all your help and for being a good friend.

Sincerely,

Allan Frankl
